Cycling All Over New Taipei City

New Taipei City is a city that stretches out along several rivers. Its unique geography has allowed it to develop the longest riverside cycling path network in Taiwan, and the changing landscapes provide for various recreational possibilities. At many places along the network, there are bike rental stations available for the public to use. From the bustling and romantic Tamsui River, to the lush riverside of Xizhi, or the ecologically rich Dahan and Xindian rivers, each section of the network is a scenic attraction worth visiting.

Among the city's cycling paths, the Dahan and Xindian River Cycling Path and the Tamsui River Left Bank Cycling Path were both selected in 2015 as Top 10 Classic Cycling Routes. The Keelung River Cycling Path was recognized in 2020 as the best cycling path by the Ministry of Sports, and the Tamsui Golden Riverside and Bali Left Bank Park were voted among New Taipei City's five most popular attractions in 2023. Additionally, the Erchong Circular Cycling Path is home to the Xionghousen Park (featuring the largest embankment slide in Taiwan), as well as the ocean-themed Sanchong Ocean World Water Park, both popular with residents and offering free summer fun for families.

Follow this map of the New Taipei City riverside cycling paths along with you on your bike ride and visit each attraction to take photos and check in online. Enjoy leisurely rides along the rivers and green spaces, explore the new riverside attractions at your own pace, and admire the colorful illuminated bridges at night. Hop on your bike and create your own wonderful memories.
